

BISBEE-DOUGLAS ROAD IS UNSAFE

In Many Places Beautiful Boulevard is Said to Be Impassable Especially at Night

WHO WILL REPAIR IT?

The once beautiful Bisbee-Douglas section of the territorial highway has been practically ruined by the summer rains, according to travelers over the road. Less than a year ago Girard called it the best piece of territorial highway in the state.

Now it is said to be not safe to pass over the highway after dark. Bisbee people who have occasion to go to Douglas in their automobiles either return the same day or wait until the following day. There are three bridges on the highway that are not passable. The bridges proper are intact but their approaches have been washed out and it is necessary to make wide detours around to get by.

Road Bad in Places
In other places on account of small caliber culverts the flood waters have run over the road bed and cut it to pieces.

In other places the oiled shell of a surface has been washed off, exposing the road foundation to the mercy of the elements and on the whole the once boasted and boasted "boulevard" is one of the most and most dangerous pieces of road in the county, according to those passing over it during the last few days.

The practical destruction of a road that cost more than $50,000 to construct, in a year's time, is sufficient evidence for the court of public opinion that the builder is guilty of "bad workmanship."

Who Will Repair Road?

The road question of the hour is: Who is going to repair the Bisbee-Douglas highway. If the road is promptly and immediately repaired some of the fifty odd thousands of dollars may be saved, but it is in such condition now that deterioration is increasing with alarming and arithmetic progression.

"A stitch in time saves nine" and a few stitches in the Bisbee-Douglas highway may save nine dollars of the original fifty thousand, or such a matter.

The road is allowed to fall into disrepair while the question of who shall repair the road is being academically discussed.

State Has No Funds for Repairs

Some say that being a state road the state should repair it, others that it being in the county the county should repair it. But regardless of who is legally responsible for repairing the road, neither the state nor the county has the money with which to repair it. The county roads are going wild because the road work fund is depleted and the state road funds have not begun to come in and will not until about December 1.

The only way to save the road, it appears, is for Bisbee and Douglas to join hands in a stone rolling day, or two days, as that much time is necessary, experts say.

six that were badly wounded, two of whom died at Caborca. Campa was very much enraged and decided that he would get even by executing those he had captured with arms, being six, he took to the church. These men were sentenced to be shot and were being held while his men were scouring the town looking for more that they knew of. During this search the Campa men shot and killed four people, one old woman and three men, one being the city treasurer. At about this state of the same a messenger was captured on the road and brought before Campa, who took the message and read it and then deliberately shot the messenger dead with his own revolver without further ceremony.

"It was later learned that the message was from the commanding officer of a small detachment of federals that were approaching Altar, requesting that the people try and hold the town until he arrived.

"In the meantime all the women were being searched and begging Campa to spare the lives of their men and finally the officer next in command to Campa told Campa that he would not stand for any further killing and

A WOMAN'S GOOD LOOKS

Depend on her general health and freedom from pain. Many a woman looks old before her time because of those irregularities which are essentially feminine. Starting from early womanhood, she suffers from frequently recurring derangements that upset her womanly health. If she be beautiful she grows into that mellow age without wrinkles and crowfoot about the eyes or the blue circles underneath. It is invariably the rule that such women suffer little, or not at all, from womanly derangements which sap the health and leave in the face the tell-tale story of pain and suffering. Dr. R. V. Pierce, the famous specialist in the diseases of women, found a prescription in his early practice that soothed the organism peculiar to womanhood—oiled the machinery, as it were, of the human system—and helped the woman to pass those painful periods that scar-lined and aged her face. This remedy became the well-known Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, that has benefited thousands of women and saved them from misery and suffering at different periods in life.

Miss HANLEY E. PIERCE, of 244 Bright Street, Harris, Ont., writes: "I am now a well woman after suffering for three years and doctoring with several different doctors, each one saying it was something different and the last one, after putting me through a thorough examination, said I was suffering from a growth, which, in time, would result in cancer, and said I would not live more than two years if not operated upon right away. I became hopelessly discouraged but would not consent to the operation as I was too weak and too much afraid, but at last, through the advice of a friend, I tried Dr. Pierce's medicine, and after using two bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' I immediately felt a change. I also used two boxes of 'Feminine Supportors' and eight boxes of 'Lotion Tablets,' and can safely praise the name of Dr. Pierce's medicines to all who suffer from any female disease, for these medicines are all they are claimed to be, and I hope will help others as they have helped me."

DOUGLAS WRITER IS EXCITED OVER CASE

Correspondent for El Paso Paper Criticizes Attorney's Attitude

Under the heading: "Douglas is further riled," the El Paso Herald's correspondent at Douglas sends to his paper the statement of United States Attorney Morrison as published in the Bisbee Review, with the introduction that "fuel was added to the flame of local indignation by what is characterized as unwarranted interference of United States Attorney Morrison."

Notwithstanding that many people in Douglas were indignant, Douglas papers say nothing of the indignation. As a matter of fact since Mr. Morrison made his candid statement of the case, offering no criticism to anyone, the public has changed its attitude regarding the "arrest" of the army officers and several Bisbee lawyers support the government's contention.

Lawyer Criticizes
"If that is a correct statement of the circumstances of the case," said one lawyer, "there has been no offense committed and the arrest has the earmarks of a grand stand play."

The statement that Mr. Morrison's action in investigating the case is "unwarranted interference" is erroneous, of course, as he is the government's attorney in Arizona.

The Douglas correspondences to the Herald concludes:

"When shown the alleged interview, county officers displayed impatience, one saying that Mr. Morrison was seeking notoriety, as he had no more power in the case than any other ordinary citizen. The arrests were made under a state, not a federal law, and the cases will be tried regardless of Mr. Morrison or his opinion."

Campa finally ordered their release. I never saw Campa after leaving Caborca on the morning of the 17th, and only learned of his departure at that time from that place for the north, upon my return to Altar.

"The Prefect of the district told me that Campa had gone north from Caborca with about twenty-five men and that he was being pursued by about one hundred Yaqui Indian Federal soldiers and that it was estimated that he had about 30,000 pesos of stolen money with him. The Prefect also told me that the United States authorities had been advised by wire of Campa's movements, and that he would advise them also of my return to Altar.

COPPER PASSES 18 CENT PRICE

Indications Are There Will Be a Shortage of Copper for Several Years

METAL TO GO HIGHER

The Walker letter in the last issue of the Boston Commercial thus reviews the copper metal and stock markets for last week:

Copper is very strong. Lake is selling at 17 3/4 to 18 1/8 cents, and electrolytic at 17 3/4 to 17 7/8 cents a pound. Both foreign and domestic consumers are in the market, and sales are being made for delivery as far ahead as the early months of next year. There is every indication that the price will continue to advance.

It is now quite certain that the large amounts of copper bought last year at low prices by foreign consumers have gone into consumption. This means that consumption actually has exceeded production to the extent of approximately 250,000,000 pounds in the last two years. Consumption is still increasing, and production is being seriously curtailed by the labor troubles in Utah and the revolution in Mexico. The indications are that there will be a shortage of copper in the world's market for several years to come.

The Copper Share Market

The stocks of the several producing copper companies are advancing. Investors and traders are coming to a fuller realization of the immense profits that these companies are making, and they are impressed also by the continually increasing amounts paid in dividends. Market-wise the situation is working itself out precisely as it should. Producing companies are getting the benefit of high metal prices now, and their reports should be the first to reflect this great prosperity. Later on speculation naturally will shift strongly to the shares of the various mining prospects.

The failure this week of Stephen R. Dow & Co. will have a depressing effect temporarily on the low priced speculative coppers. It is extremely unfortunate that the cash assets of the so-called Dow companies should have been diverted from legitimate channels and lost. A great deal of sympathy is being expressed for President Dow, and he deserves it; but so do the stockholders also. They were honest in their intentions when they bought the stocks, and had every reason, as did others, to believe that the company's financial affairs were being conducted on strict business principles.

However, these losses will prove to have been very small by comparison, if mines are developed in the various properties. It is an unpleasant incident, and should be so treated and forgotten. It will lead to more care and watchfulness by directors of other companies, and this will prevent a recurrence.

It is almost an invariable rule in a bull market that mining stocks sell much lower when a failure is announced or an assessment called than they do soon after. Of course, there are exceptions to all rules; but I think the old one will work out this time and that all of the Dow stocks will be back to their recent high prices within a few months or a year.

There is now every prospect that aggregate dividend payments next year by the copper producing companies of the United States will very considerably exceed those of 1906 and 1907. While earnings this year will show an increase of 150 per cent, as compared with 1911, dividend payments probably will not average more than 50 to 75 per cent greater. As a result, the treasury surplus of practically every company will be large enough by the end of December to warrant a disbursement of its total net earnings in dividends next year.

The general range of copper share prices is still ridiculously low. The stocks of all the leading producers on the list, from Ahmsek down to Wolverine, are entitled to sell higher. I am particularly bullish on Grady Copper Reagent, Old Dominion, Superior, Anaconda, and the stocks of the various porphyry companies.

Those who do not care to invest and who wish to take a speculative chance in a development proposition or prospect, now have the best opportunity of an age. During the coming two or three years there will be a persistent hunt for good copper mining prospects, and favorable developments by companies now doing exploratory work will be duly appreciated. This is a good time to pick up the low priced stocks of Lake Superior and other companies.

CONFESSES PLOT IN MURDER

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 5.—The Reuter murder case, one of the most sensational in the records of Tulsa, was called in court today and it is expected the trial will get under way the first of next week. Charles T. Reuter, a lawyer, formerly of Peoria, Ill., was murdered in his home in the best residence section of this city, on the night of May 5 last. The police investigation resulted in indictments for murder being returned against Mrs. Laura M. Reuter, widow of the slain man, and Guy D. Mackenzie, "Dud" Bellow and Joe Baker. Bellow is alleged to have confessed that the motive for the murder was "love, revenge and robbery," though declaring at the same time that the wife had no knowledge that her husband was to be killed. Mrs. Reuter is confident of acquittal, and public sentiment now appears to be strong in her favor.

new shaft is being sunk to get away from the water.

The tunnel will connect with the new shaft as well as the other two shafts, which have been sunk to a depth of about 450 feet each. The tunnel is to be used for the transferring of the ores from the mine to the railroad, which is to be constructed as soon as conditions are quieter. It will also serve as a drain for the water above the level and the water below will be pumped to the tunnel level. The project is under the management of Henry Rollweg.
